Shipping Policy

Please review our Shipping Policy, which also governs your visit to the Site, to understand our practices, the customer must agree upon check out to complete the order.

The term ³shipping² or ³ship² includes the commencement of shipping items in an order for multiple purchases or where the item purchased consists of components that must be shipped separately. For example, your order may consist of (1) several different items, (2) a quantity of the same item, or, (3) a single item with several component parts the size of which might require them to be shipped in separate packages. In all such orders, we endeavor to ship out individual packages together so that they arrive at the same time; however, when that is not possible, we commence shipping by shipping individual packages in the order the soonest they are available and conditions permit. In these instances, our notification to you that your order has ³shipped,² marks the time when shipping has commenced; it does not mean that all items in the order have shipped at that time. All packages sent have a separate tracking number and may be followed on the Order Status page. You agree that Credit cards and debit cards are to be charged on the date of inventory reservation for the order, not the date of shipping.

Sales to USA addresses only, no International orders.

Thank you for your service but we are unable to ship our items to APO's or FPO's.

We are proud to offer Same Day or Next Day packing and shipping of your order. There may be slight delays during peak seasonal times. We attempt to ship all orders ASAP; we are not responsible for delays in USPS, UPS, FedEx or Truck shipments due to weather or any other delays or natural disasters. Delivery takes between 1 and 9 days depending on location shipped from our warehouse at zip 63368. Please leave enough time to get your shipment for that special event.
